

You Including Myself Episode V : A refined dinner

Mun Min

"You Including Myself" Episode records and expresses the portrait of contemporary people living in the square frame, by simplifying facets of humans. The details of my everyday life and emotions are portrayed as the aspects of contemporary people, and all these serve as subject matters of my work and are recorded through the formative concept.

"A refined dinner" Episode addresses the refined facets of thees in the contemporary society where a minimal life is pursued and an individual life is valued. When it comes to the aspect, while hiding one's true figuration in the group through habitual gathering and unnecessary encounters of the group, one compromises on each one's ideas and such ideas are expressed and pass by, in this way, as always.

At this place, thees talk about a Utopian life and keep the relationship. Thees encompass the superficial meaning while concealing the true idea below the line that must have reflected somewhere, thus it is permeated with the ideal of thees own.

The social existence of thees determines who thees are.
